

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a connecting plate and to a method for producing connecting plates of hydrostatic machines. The connecting plate is cut to length from a previously produced extruded profile to give connecting plate blanks and is then finished.